FINANCE CONCENTRATION

Concentration Overview
The Finance concentration prepares students to enter careers in a variety of financial institutions and finance-related operations. A focus on the investments industry is promoted through classwork and potential involvement in the UO Investment group. An emphasis on financial management combines courses with involvement in the student chapter of the Financial Management Association. Students with an interest in Commercial Bank and Credit Union operations are oriented toward classwork and potential involvement in the UO Credit Finance Group. All Finance concentrators are encouraged to develop internships and to take advantage of the guest speakers from the finance industry sponsored by the Finance and Securities Analysis Center.

Advising Notes
Successful completion of FIN 316 (or its transferred equivalent) is mandatory for any further coursework in Finance. Additionally, OBA 330 is required before taking FIN 380. It is strongly suggested that FIN 473 be taken as soon after completion of FIN 380 as is feasible for the student’s schedule. All other classes in the discipline can be taken in any order available, as none of the other courses have a prerequisite other than FIN 316.

Concentration Requirements

Recommended Course Sequence
FIN 473 is an advanced class that covers in more depth topics considered in 316, and should be taken soon after FIN 380 to better prepare students for corporate recruiting visits in fall and winter. FIN 464 is strongly recommended for students interested in a career in a banking institution.
