About the Lundquist College of Business

The Lundquist College of Business is considered a ‘Professional School’. This means that all students need to complete certain classes before they are called a business major. All students start as Pre-Business Majors.

The following pages will talk about the Pre-Business requirements and how to get into the business school.

Once students complete the Pre-Business requirements, you will apply to the College of Business to become either an Accounting or Business Administration Major.

Academic Advisors in the College of Business are here to help you along this path. We look forward to meeting you!
College of Business: Getting into the Business Major

- When you first start at the UO, you will be a Pre-Business student not yet admitted to the College of Business and Major.

- All students start as Pre-Business Majors and must complete a set of requirements before they can formally become a Business Major.

- Click here for a link to the pre-business requirements.

- To be a business major, you must have an overall GPA of 2.9 (a B average), complete 90 credits, and taken all required pre-business courses. All transfer grades are also factored into the 2.9 GPA requirement.
College of Business: Pre-Business Requirements

The pre-business courses are listed below. All students must receive a C- grade or better:

- Writing 121, and Writing 122 or 123 (8 total credits)
- Math 241, 242 and 243 (12 total credits)
- Business Administration 101 and 240 (8 total credits)
- Economics 201 and 202 (8 total credits)
- Accounting 211 and 213 (8 total credits)
College of Business: Pre-Business Requirements

- International students must also show English Proficiency before entering the College of Business (575 - pbTOEFL, 89 - ibTOEFL, 7.0 IELTS, or completion of AEIS at the University of Oregon)

- For more information on the College of Business requirements, see the Lundquist College of Business Webpage

- To prepare to apply to the major, meet with a business academic advisor once you are on campus. You can schedule a meeting by calling 541-346-3303.
College of Business: Majors

The College of Business offers two majors: Business Administration and Accounting. You will take the major courses once you are admitted to the major.

Both Accounting and Business Administration majors will take ten ‘core’ upper-division business classes:

- Management 321
- Business Administration 352
- Finance 311
- Finance 316
- Business Environment and Law 325
- Marketing 311
- Decision Sciences 330
- Decision Sciences 335
- Decision Sciences 340
- Business Administration 453
Business Administration Major

If you choose the Business Administration major, in addition to the ten ‘core’ business classes, you will take seven other business courses.

When choosing your seven courses, you can select a ‘concentration’. A concentration is not a major and is not listed on your diploma. It is 4 courses in a specific field of business. The following concentrations are available in the Business Administration major:

- Finance
- Entrepreneurship/Small Business
- Information Systems/Operations Management
- Marketing
- Sports Business
As an Accounting Major, you will take seven accounting courses in addition to the ten ‘business core’ classes.

Upper-Division accounting courses will cover topics such as:

- Intermediate & Advanced Financial Accounting
- Tax Accounting
- Cost Accounting
- Auditing, and
- Accounting Information Systems
The College of Business has many ways to support students. The following pages will provide information about clubs, academic resources, career services information, and tips for new students.
Many students get involved on campus through student clubs.

These clubs are run by students and can help you make friends, learn skills, and get connected to the school.

Many business students get involved in clubs during their time at the UO.

If you are interested in joining a student club, look at our business and non-business club websites.
College of Business: Academic Resources

Academic Tutoring
For a little extra help with classes, the College of Business has a tutoring center for both pre-business and business majors.

In addition, the UO has Math, Language and Writing tutoring available at the Teaching and Learning Center.

For additional information, visit the Teaching and Learning Center and the Braddock Tutoring Center.

Writing Resources
Business students do a lot of writing, and the UO offers many resources to help.

- Teaching and Learning Center Writing Course and Tutoring
- International Business Communication Writing Courses
- AEIS college level English courses
- WR 121 & 122 Writing Labs
- Braddock Tutoring Center for business writing
Career Services

The College of Business also has its own Career Services Center.

This center can help you plan your career, prepare for interviews, and find an internship. The career center is available to all pre-business and business majors.

The center also sponsors networking and career presentations and events.

We encourage students to visit the career center early on to begin thinking about potential jobs and internships.

The UO also has a general career service center for non-business jobs and for searching for on-campus student job opportunities.
Fall Course for New Freshman

If you will be a new freshman during a Fall term, the College of Business offers a 1-credit course to learn more about UO Business Education

• Understand the value of a liberal arts-based business education
• Create your four-year graduation plan
• Learn about resources to help you succeed and engage with the LCB
• Learn how to land the internship of your dreams
• Collaborate with other students to network and engage in a global educational setting

During New International Student Orientation, register for BA 199: Maximizing Your Business Education if you want to take this course.
College of Business: Transfer Students

If you have credit from a university or college in your home country, you may be able to transfer the courses to meet requirements in the College of Business majors.

In order to help evaluate your courses from your home university, please bring the following information with you when you arrive at the University of Oregon:

1. Class description for each class
2. Weekly outline of topics covered or a lecture menu, for each class
3. If possible, the name of textbooks used for each class
4. Schedule an appointment with a College of Business Advisor to talk about your transfer classes and if they can be used to meet your major requirements
For more information on the requirements for a business major see our Advising Document & Business Website or contact an Academic Advisor:
