Free tutoring is offered virtually via Zoom on a drop-in basis, or by-appointment only, based on the following policies.

General Policies
We are committed to supporting student academic success on the basis that tutoring cannot replace self-learning, and requires students’ active engagement:

1. We do not provide first-time instruction i.e., teach. Tutoring cannot substitute for learning from instructors’ lectures.
2. Before seeking tutoring help, watch and/or attend lectures, take notes, review course materials and attempt to complete assignments on your own first.
   - Come with prepared questions and a willingness to actively work with tutors.
   - We may ask you to self-learn on your own first, before returning with specific questions for tutors.
3. We do not provide or check answers for assignments, or assist with other course requirements, unless explicitly permitted by instructors
   - Tutors provide guidance on finding solutions and help to clarify understanding of concepts
4. Academic assistance is only available for the core required courses listed below:
   - We do not tutor EC 311 or any concepts/topics in the course. EC 201, EC 202 and EC 311 content is not the same as FIN 311.
